

LONELY MOP DESPERATELY SEARCHES FOR HOME TO CLEAN

This lonely mop has been barely surviving on the floor of the Family Dollar. Every day it is beaten by inconsiderate shoppers with their large metal carts. Battered and bruised, it has remained despite many attempts to find a loving home.

It pleads with every fiber in its threads at all who pass. Even in its abused state, it can offer many benefits, it cries. It can make cleaning floors easy with its ability to ring out its head with a built-in spinner. It's more than capable of being used with a variety of floor types. Wood, laminate, tile, and marble floors are a breeze to clean for this efficient mop.

Worried about messes? It has you covered. The mop's bucket comes complete with a splash guard. Only get water where you want it! And the head of the mop? Washable. Just throw it in the washing machine with other like-minded materials. In fact, it loves a trip in the washer, followed by a nap in the cool breeze and warm sun.

How about those difficult to reach places? The mop's circular head can tilt and swivel to reach all of the nooks and crannies. And none of these features require its owner to bend over. This mop would love to clean floors, if only someone would give it a home. You can be that someone for just one single payment of $25 plus tax. Won't you save this poor mop from further abuse and let it clean your floors?
